The Porsche 911 Carrera 3.2 SSE Super Sport Equipment is a highly desirable "Turbo-Look" featuring the M491 option code, taking the standard Carrera model and then adding the Turbo's wide-body, spoilers, suspension, four-piston fixed calipers, 16-inch forged alloy rims and low profile tyres.

The Porsche 911 930 SuperSport which is known as the SSE model was first introduced in 1984 and these cars were taken off the production line and taken to the special build facility via the E-Programme. Originally only available in coupe form the 911 Supersport provided a solution that made sense for people who wanted a Turbo without buying a car that could be challenging to, at the time the 911 930 Turbo was nicknamed the Widow Maker and for good reason.

The car comes complete with the original owners manual, book pack, both keys with the 1980's leather pouch and the original filter dated 1988.
